The Congress of the United States, assembled in convention, do ordain and establish the following act:

Sec. 1. After the expiration of line 5, the President shall be authorized to requisition from the several States sufficient non-commissioned officers and privates to serve in the army of the United States, and to direct the General in Chief to receive the same, and to pay the commissions and stipends thereof as may be necessary.

Sec. 2. The President of the United States shall, from time to time, assign and order, and the Secretary of War shall cause to be distributed, such number of commissions and the like to the officers as may be necessary to form and complete the army of the United States.

Sec. 3. The President of the United States shall, from time to time, appoint such officers as may be necessary to command the army of the United States, and the Secretary of War shall cause to be distributed such number of commissions and the like to the officers as may be necessary to form and complete the army of the United States.

Sec. 4. The President of the United States shall, from time to time, appoint such officers as may be necessary to command the army of the United States, and the Secretary of War shall cause to be distributed such number of commissions and the like to the officers as may be necessary to form and complete the army of the United States.

Sec. 5. The President of the United States shall, from time to time, appoint such officers as may be necessary to command the army of the United States, and the Secretary of War shall cause to be distributed such number of commissions and the like to the officers as may be necessary to form and complete the army of the United States.

Sec. 6. The President of the United States shall, from time to time, appoint such officers as may be necessary to command the army of the United States, and the Secretary of War shall cause to be distributed such number of commissions and the like to the officers as may be necessary to form and complete the army of the United States.

Sec. 7. The President of the United States shall, from time to time, appoint such officers as may be necessary to command the army of the United States, and the Secretary of War shall cause to be distributed such number of commissions and the like to the officers as may be necessary to form and complete the army of the United States.

Sec. 8. The President of the United States shall, from time to time, appoint such officers as may be necessary to command the army of the United States, and the Secretary of War shall cause to be distributed such number of commissions and the like to the officers as may be necessary to form and complete the army of the United States.

Sec. 9. The President of the United States shall, from time to time, appoint such officers as may be necessary to command the army of the United States, and the Secretary of War shall cause to be distributed such number of commissions and the like to the officers as may be necessary to form and complete the army of the United States.

Sec. 10. The President of the United States shall, from time to time, appoint such officers as may be necessary to command the army of the United States, and the Secretary of War shall cause to be distributed such number of commissions and the like to the officers as may be necessary to form and complete the army of the United States.