

United States, January 4th 1790

Sir,

Whichever there shall be a sufficient number of the two Houses of Congress assembled to proceed to business, I request to be informed of it. — And also at what time and place it will be convenient for Congress that I should meet them, in order to make some oral communications at the commencement of their session.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most humble servant

George Washington

The Vice President of the United States and President of the Senate.
